Circular Entrepreneurship for Unemployed Women

The Kick-Off Meeting in Maribor

Kick-Off Meetings are precious opportunities for partners to meet each other, to discuss the foundations and schedule of their project, and to open the work.

C-EN KOM was hosted by DISORA in Maribor (SI) on April 24th 2023.

WHAT IS C-EN?

C-EN is a project with a double aim: raising awareness on the circular economic model, which consists of up-cycling and recycling at every step of the production/consumption process minimising the waste, and encouraging unemployed people, especially unemployed women, to put in practice an entrepreneurial idea.

THE PARTNERS

SKILL UP Srl is a consulting company created in 2016 by professionals with a strong experience on training and business consulting. The business can rely on a team with proven abilities and substantial ERASMUS+ project expertise. The emphasis of Skill Up is on the organisational requirements of businesses, as well as the skills, development, and listening requirements of the workforce.

Neotalentway is a Granada-based training and educational institution that specialises in preparing both employed and jobless individuals for the workforce. From the perspectives of personal growth, skills, and career guidance, it offers training at all levels. Additionally, they offer managerial training, key competences, soft skills training, marketing training, communication training, conflict resolution training, and emotional intelligence training.

DISORA is a non-profit NGO located in Maribor, the second largest city in Slovenia. In the areas of education, culture, sports, and social development, they want to make a meaningful and lasting contribution. The vulnerable target groups that DISORA principally works with are seniors, youths, the jobless, individuals with disabilities, those with poor education levels, the Roma, and migrants.

THE KICK OFF MEETING

The Kick-Off Meeting of C-EN project was hosted in Maribor by Disora.

The meeting started with the partners presenting their companies and their competencies. DISORA and Neotalentway met during the project crelCTivity while Neotalentway and Skill Up have worked together at Think Diverse! project.

Neotalentway, leader of the project, presented the Project Plan.

The Spanish organisation presented some options for the visual identity of the project and the partners decided together which logo to use. The option number one was selected but the partners agreed on broadening the colour palette to a livelier one that includes shades of green and purple. Neotalentway will prepare templates for the outputs and the dissemination activities of C-EN using the selected logo, the Erasmus+ logo and the project number.

Skill Up presented the Quality Plan and the EU visual guidelines for the products and outcomes of C-EN. The partners agreed on the expected results for every activity and for the dissemination part. Skill Up will be in charge of the internal evaluation in every phase of the project, including the final Report at the end of the project. The questionnaire on the perceived satisfaction after KOM was sent by Skill Up after the end of the meeting.
